U.F.A. MEMBERS ANNUAL PICNIC NORMANDIN LAKE

Possibly the best picnic which they ever held was enjoyed to the full on Wednesday last when the members of the local U. F. A. with their wives and children to the number of some two hundred journeyed to the lovely picnic grounds and beaches at Normandin's lake for their annual outing.

With the very bright prospects of a beautiful harvest, the spirit of enthusiasm was prevalent and all entered heartily into the sports—races, bathing, boating, baseball, etc.—and from the picnic point of view, why the cats were scrumptious.

Under the able management of hard working committees, children of all ages from 50 years downwards entered with zest into the races, and the following is a list of the prize-winners:

GIRLS' RACES
Five years and under—M. Plater, 1; B. Daniels, 2; E. Ebbert, 3.

Needle and thread race—G. Hardwick, 1; D. Jackson, 2; F. Ebbert, 3.
Egg and spoon race—P. Patterson, 1; W. Jackson, 2; G. Hardwick, 3.
Fat men—E. Jackson, 1; J. Bryant, 2; D. McDougall, 3.

At the close of the racing a pick-up baseball game was played between the "fishers" and "waders" which resulted in a draw of seven runs each. Good snappy ball was played and the game caused not a little excitement.

The evening (and a lot of the night, too) was spent by the merry throng in an enjoyable dance to the strains of the Wainwright orchestra and all were hearty in their expressions of their appreciation of the 1923 picnic.

The latest estimate of the number of harvest hands needed in the province is 12,000. The department of labor is exerting every effort to fill the demand. Excursions to the west will commence to arrive August 7, and the first party will reach Alberta between August 8 and 10. Appeals to employers in the province are also being made to release, as many employees as possible for the harvest season.

THRILLING DRAMA AT ELITE

A powerful and romantic story of the great love of a man who sacrificed many lives, including his own, that one woman might be happy in her love, "Ace of Hearts," Goldwyn's latest, Gouverneur Morris melodrama, directed by Wallace Worsley, is coming to the Elite theatre on Friday and Saturday nights. The story, which is a gripping tale of love, war, and adventure, is a masterpiece of the screen. The story is a gripping tale of love, war, and adventure, is a masterpiece of the screen. The story is a gripping tale of love, war, and adventure, is a masterpiece of the screen.

YOUR PRIVILEGE

The Star will be pleased to have its readers use these columns as their own, to the extent of contributing social and personal items which are of interest. If you have friends visiting you, there is no nicer compliment you can pay them, than that of taking the trouble to see that their names are mentioned in your local news paper. If you are going away yourself or have any items whatever of interest, call at or phone The Star.

EVERYBODY GIVE WAINWRIGHT FAIR ONE BIG BOOST

Have you all seen the 1924 prize list? If not, procure one because they are well worth studying. Wainwright will no doubt have the largest and best fair they ever had, everybody is optimistic, and for this reason alone the society should have the prizes. The directors feel sure that the public will support them this year as never before by bringing out their stock, etc., for exhibition. A glance at the prize list will convince exhibitors that they will be amply rewarded by getting in on some of the prizes.

We would still like to see our membership list increased considerably, no doubt a good many people have overlooked this important matter. Do not fail to enroll as a member of the society the first time you are in town, show your sympathy and well wishes to the directors in this way. A good word also, instead of a "know" will in due time have its reward, and there is no doubt about it. Wainwright in the course of the next year or two will have the largest and best fair of any town in the province.

There will be ample entertainment for young and old in the way of ball games, football, basketball, and other good things too numerous to mention. Keep the day and date in mind, and make up your mind that you are going to be one of the many at the fair. Let us all get together on this, and from now on until fair day give the fair one great long boost.

CANADIAN NATIONAL OPERATING SURPLUS

Montreal.—The Canadian National System climbed out of the valley of operating deficits earlier this year than in 1922 and at the end of May was $723,310 ahead on five month's operations. At the end of May, 1922, the line was still $2,035,839 in the hole. Allowing for the larger traffic that is bound to develop for the rest of this year, the heavy movements of grain that will follow the bountiful harvests and over operating ratios as a result of a cessation of floods and storms, the line at the end of 1923 should be substantially ahead of 1922 operating account. It will still be a long way from paying interest charges.

It is apparent that the Grand Trunk western lines, which comprise the lines in the United States between Sarnia and Chicago, are proving the most profitable of all on the system. While figures for May completely analyzed are not available, the figures to the end of April for the constituent portions of the system were as follows:

Four Months Net Earnings	1922	1923
C. N. R. in Canada	$4,007,175	$4,322,102
G. T. R. in Canada	2,737,387	1,100,993
New Eng.	91,116	106,774
Totals	$1,360,919	$3,114,355

Deficit.

ARM IS BROKEN BY FALL

On Wednesday last, while taking a ride on horseback with his sister Margaret, Billy Fish, who is staying with his parents at this camp, suffered the misfortune to break his arm. It seems that the two children were enjoying a ride on Billy's horse, when the animal stepped into a hole and in recovering itself burst the saddle which with the result that the saddle slipped round and threw both riders to the ground. Miss Margaret was unhurt, but the wee lad in striking the ground broke his right arm near the elbow.

Owing to the storm, the telephone wires were out of commission, but luckily Mr. M. Forster arrived at his camp shortly afterwards, and he immediately hurried back to town for medical assistance, and as soon as possible Dr. Wallace was in attendance and the sufferer made easy.

The injured limb is going along nicely now and we extend hopes of a speedy recovery.

NORMANDIN'S NEWS

Dr. S. E. and Mrs. Wiley are now camping at the north end. The camp was upset last week by the accident to little Billy Fish, but he's now going along nicely.

Owing to an accident at the ball game of the farmer's picnic, Mr. Hardwick received a very nasty swat with a base bat. Dr. Wallace soon gave him relief and a black eye was the only outcome.

Mrs. Pecknold has returned to camp after a visit to friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish, sr., have returned to their home at Rumsey, after a couple of weeks camping with their son Frank.

Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald and her sister Mrs. Graham were visiting at the lake before returning to Washington by auto.

Mrs. George Gregson and her son are now camping at the south end for a short holiday.

The loss of the use of the phone owing to the storm last week was very teasing, but the completion of the repairs in 3 days must have been a record when the sad state of the line is remembered.

Marketing unsatisfactory during the week with fluctuations which show a weak tendency to the market. Western crop conditions very good, except some districts that were hailed. ISN'T IT FUNNY

A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping under an advertised blanket on an advertised mattress, on an advertised bed; pulls off an advertised tub; takes a bath in an advertised tub; washes with an advertised razor; washes with an advertised soap; powders his face with an advertised powder; dons an advertised underswear, hose, shirt, collar, shoes, suit, handkerchief, sits down to a breakfast of advertised cereal; drinks advertised coffee; puts on an advertised light; lights an advertised cigar; rides to his office in an advertised auto on advertised tires; then he refuses to advertise on the ground that advertising doesn't pay.

WEDDING BELLS

MCLEOD—WAKEFIELD
First Presbyterian church was the scene of a quiet wedding at three o'clock on Thursday, July 19, when Miss Mabel A. Wakefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wakefield of Tawataw, Alberta, became the bride of Fred Ernest McLeod of Smith, Alberta son of Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod of Saskatoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. McInnes in the presence of immediate relatives of the young couple, Mrs. Mary A. LeBrier and Mrs. Doris R. LaBrier were the attendants.

The bride wore a suit of navy blue serge, the coat opening over a blouse of gray georgette embroidered in tinted silk, and a gray and navy velvet hat.

Mr. and Mrs. McLeod left on Monday evening for Smith where they will make their home. Mr. McLeod is night operator at Smith.—Journal.

The bride is an old resident of Wainwright having lived here for many years with her parents, while the bridegroom also is a former resident of our town and we wish them a long and happy married life.

CLEAR LAKE GOSSIP

The campers had a enjoyable time around a big bon-fire Sunday night.

Mr. C. W. Turner, is erecting a cottage on his lot, Dad sure swings a wicked hammer in the early morning hours.

Mrs. Cliff Church with her mother Mrs. Herndon and brother Ralph Herndon of Telford are occupying Lafalot cottage for a time.

Mrs. Bagnell and her two children, and Miss McNeil, all of Calgary broke camp on Wednesday.

Miss Dorothy Brownrigg of Saskatoon, accompanied Miss Lorraine Fraser home on Monday, and is now enjoying camp life at "The Poplars".

The boys camp with Mr. McArthur and Mr. Stevens of Saskatoon, in charge are now camped on the east side of the lake.

Miss Aileen Brownrigg arrived from Saskatoon on Saturday night, to visit Mrs. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser, has added to the appearance of his cottage by building a veranda 7 ft. x 24 ft. down one side.

Miss Vera Linfert was a guest at Mrs. Snyder's cottage on Wednesday.

Mrs. Hoegh, and Mrs. Walton have returned to town, after a pleasant holiday at the lake.

PRESBYTERIAN S.S. HOLD ENJOYABLE PICNIC MOTT LAKE

The Sunday school attendants at St. Andrew's (Pres.) church held their annual picnic on Thursday last at Mott lake when a goodly number of children with their parents and teachers spent a very pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Davidson were the hosts for the day and spared no effort to make the outing an enjoyable one for all parents.

Ice-cream and lunch was served to the children, after which the groupings sat down to a delicious supper. The weather was ideal, could be wished for, and the occasion was truly up to the standard of former affairs of this kind.

Hearty thanks are expressed to all who helped in any way in making the affair so successful, and especially to the car owners who so kindly arranged transportation for the little ones.

POPULAR FOX STAR IN TRUE WESTERN PICTURE

Dustin Farnum, popular as a screen star with all classes of motion picture patrons, comes to the Elite theatre next Monday and Tuesday in "The Primal Law," a stirring story of the West by E. Lloyd Sheldon, presented as a William Fox photoplay. In the role of Brian Wayne, rancher, Farnum appears as a strong man with a singularly gentle and kindly nature. He is a dangerous and determined fighter against the men plotting to depose his little pal, Bobbie Carson, but toward the boy he is gentleness itself.

There is a charming love story in "The Primal Law," developed amid exciting circumstances. Mary Thurman is Farnum's leading woman.

The directing of "The Primal Law" was no small task, with its swift action, large cast and scores of extra people in scenes depicting the fighting between the ranchers and their enemies. It was accomplished by Bernard Durning.

DATES FOR DUCK SHOOTING

According to the game regulations for 1923 just issued by Chief Game Guardian Benjamin Lawton the open season for ducks and geese will not commence until September 15. After that date and until December 14 hunters will be entitled to take full limit of two hundred for the season with a maximum for any one day of thirty.

This setback in the date of commencement although appearing somewhat harsh is entirely necessary as there has been a big falling off in the number of ducks in the province during the last two years, and observer's reports from the breeding grounds this year state that flocks will be small, although some families of ducklings are already swimming the lakes and sloughs.

Chicken and Partridge

The season for prairie chicken and partridges opens on October 15 until the end of the month, with a limit of 50 for the season or ten per day. October has been declared open season for the little Hungarian partridge, but an order-in-council was passed on June 22 declaring a closed season in areas north of the Battle river in order to give what few of these have been released a chance to increase before excessive shooting takes place.

RENEW NOW!

A large number of subscriptions to The Star are now due. In order to save us the expense of mailing each one in arrears a statement of account we wish to call your attention to the label on your paper this week. It shows the month and year to which your subscription is paid. If you are one of those in arrears you would confer a favor by attending to this matter within the next days. It is against the law to mail papers not paid for, or arrangements made for payment.

GETTING READY FOR WAINWRIGHT'S BIG 1923 FAIR

The directors of the fair met in the town hall on Saturday last and in addition to deciding a lot of unfinished business, have now all the arrangements pretty well in hand.

Intending exhibitors should note that two additions were made to the prize list.—The society will give special prizes of $10 and $5 for four-horse team, and in the grain-section prizes will be given for the best sheaf of wheat of any other variety as well as for Marquis and Red Fife as listed.

McLeod McLeod Bros. of Gilt Edge will supply the fair with a big marquee for the industrial exhibits. Tuesday August 7th was set for grading the track and doing other work on the grounds and the directors invite and will appreciate the attendance of all who are able to assist, and also on the 15th of August, the day before the fair, to help erect the marquee, tables stands etc., and the equipment for the sports.

All competitors in the field crop competition who have not yet entered do so at once, as the crop will be judged in a few days. It is now time to make entries for the fair and avoid the rush of the last few days. Get a prize list from the secretary, Mr. S. Leithwaite.

INTERTILLED CROPS

(Experimental Farms Note)

Summerfallow is a necessity at an early stage of the development of agriculture in any country. It was practiced in the Eastern United States and in Eastern Canada more than a hundred years ago, but is not used much in those parts now. Later it was in vogue in the Central States, but is being superseded by methods more intensive and more remunerative; and for more than forty years it has been a common practice in the Western States and more especially in Western Canada.

Summerfallow is co-incidental with the stage of one-crop farming, and one-crop farming can last as a system only as long as the material in the soil can furnish food for such a crop. In the older parts of the continent this stage has been replaced by the introduction of live stock, the returning of manure to the land and the growing of intertilled crops, more particularly the growth of clover. In many of the older parts of the Canadian West where farming has consisted chiefly of summerfallowing and wheat growing the returns in recent years, in many cases do not give the proprietor sufficient income to meet expenses and the land is subject to blowing in dry season. The natural resource is to introduce intertilled crops, live stock and grasses.

Intertilled crops, such as corn, turnips and sun-flowers have been grown at the Experimental Station at Rosthern for thirteen years. These crops have always been grown in rotation with grains and grasses and the land given an application of manure immediately before the intertilled crop. Land worked under such a rotation became cleared of weeds, did not drift in dry seasons and yielded more grain per acre than land on which the rotation was grain alone.

Intertilled crops alone, or grasses alone, will not solve the problems of soil-depletion, soil-draining and weeds, but both of these in conjunction with live stock and the return of the manure to the land mean a permanent agriculture.

The one great feature in growing intertilled crops which is more important perhaps than any other is care in preventing the growth of weeds. If the crop is not kept free of weeds the yield is lowered, and the great end, the cleaning of the land, is defeated.

RULES OF THE ROAD

The recent automobile smash near Chauvin draws public attention to the necessity of observing the rules of the road. There is great laxness on the part of a number of our local drivers in the observation of the few, (but necessary) rules that have been incorporated in the provincial laws. So much of our travelling is done on country roads that it is imperative that drivers neglects to keep to the right when in town and he turns his car round regardless of being in the centre of a block. Many drivers are slow to turn to the right when passing and are negligently in the amount of room they allow the approaching car. Too little use is made of the horn when entering upon sections of trail where the view is obscured by trees.

Auto drivers should remember that ladies still have a right to drive on our roads and trails, and that children must often drive the pony back and forth to school.—Ed.

ANN. CONVENTION OF DOM. WEEKLY NEWSPAPER MEN

Sydney Harbor is one of the finest in the world. It is two miles wide at its mouth and a vessel may leave the harbor and by way of the St. Lawrence, its canals and the Great Lakes, travel some 2,000 miles into the heart of our great Dominion. It is the site of the principal blast furnaces, the coalside situated around Sydney being unique, 70 per cent. of the reserve in the coal seams is situated under the sea, and 70 per cent. of all the coal being mined in this district is won from under the sea. Our engineers are making technical history, and their projects are of a character that will make Cape Breton renowned in the annals of mining engineering.

A crying need of the Province of Ontario and Quebec, is an assured supply of suitable fuel for domestic heating at a moderate price. The small household cannot longer afford to pay from $18.00 to $20.00 per ton for anthracite, and he cannot look for much relief in the price of anthracite, if any. Indeed, as the years go by, it will become dearer and increasingly hard to obtain.

There is made in Sydney from Sydney coal, by-product, coke. This is a fuel that has all the desirable qualities of anthracite, but in greater degree. 8 tons of it is equal to 10 tons of the best quality commercial anthracite. By the erection of coke ovens, in Montreal and other cities of Quebec and Ontario, it is possible to provide the household with a fuel that will cost him less than anthracite, will give him greater heat with less labor, and will result in the necessity to import anthracite. If this were done the mines of Nova Scotia would have an annual market for coal that would be absolutely dependable and steady; the quantity of coal mined in Nova Scotia would increase, and it would be unnecessary to send money out of the country for imported anthracite.

The manufacture of domestic coke from Nova Scotia bituminous coal in the large cities of Ontario and Quebec is one way in which Nova Scotia can help our provinces, and in turn receive very considerable assistance herself, and in combination add greatly to the wealth of the Dominion.

Arriving in New Glasgow on Thursday morning, June 27th, we were again taken on a motor trip around Stellarton and Trenton, visiting the industrial plants.

On leaving the mines a delightful sail was made on the Bras'Or Lakes which is a most delightful inland sea of 450 square miles and amidst our pleasures in passing over this splendid sheet of water there was a tinge of sadness on hearing of the death of a noted celebrity Sir. Alex. Graham Bell, the founder of our great telephone system that plays such active part in the world's progress. Here he lived and thought out his many wonderful inventions and here, by his own request he was buried.

Arriving at Amherst we had our first rain, but being housed in good cars we were taken out to view the Tantramar marshes. It is situated near the head of Chignecto Bay, not far from a strip of land eleven miles in width over which some years ago an abortive attempt was made to construct a marine railway for the purpose of conveying vessels from the head waters of the Bay of Fundy into the Northumberland Straits. En route of Sackville we passed the ruins (continued on page 3)

PATIENCE

Supposing fish don't bite at first.
What are you going to do?
Throw down your pole, destroy your bait,
An' say your fishin's through?
You bet you ain't; you're going to fish
An' fish. An' fish. An' wait
Until you get a basketful
Or used up all your bait.
Suppose success don't come at first.
What are you going to do?
Throw up the sponge an' kick yourself
An' growl, an' fret, an' stew?
You bet you ain't; you're going to fish.
An' bait, an' bait again,
Until success will bite your hook,
For grit is sure to win.

The Mills of God

For the third time that morning Hal Strathmore entered his father's office ostensibly on business, but really to see if Nora Towers was there, his father's private secretary.

"Where is Nora today?"

"I don't know. She resigned her position last night—saying she was going home for a time. Gave no reason."

"Gone!—I don't understand. May I ask you—did you dismiss her?"

"Yes; I did, because—"

"Because what?"

"Do I need to tell you, Hal? I have spoken to you several times of your infatuation. I have other plans for you."

A marriage with Kathleen Tenside will unite these two firms and give you a most enviable place in both social and business world."

A dark shadow crossed the usual happy features of the younger man. "Damn position and society. You know that I do not care for these things. The only position I crave is to be of service to my fellow men—even the employees of your plant."

Kathleen and I would be a sad misfit. She is a society girl. I feel it would have been better if you had talked to me before you took this step."

"I have talked to you till I am tired. Now I shall see what other tactics will accomplish."

"Very well, if that is your line, and you put up a challenge, we'll see who wins."

There is no doubt of who will win an less you desire to give up everything."

Hal ground his heels into the floor—looked at his watch, and strode from the room. Walking briskly, absorbed in mind, he came suddenly face to face with the object of his thoughts.

"Nora, I thought you had gone home. I am so glad to meet you. You see I know it all now. Promise me you will not go till I see you again."

"I did intend going this afternoon, but I ran across my old friend, Mr. Greaves, of the Children's Aid department. Of course, I told him the whole thing. His stenographer is ill, and he is fearfully behind with his work, so I have promised to give him a hand for a month. I am on my way there now."

"Good! I'll be round this evening with the car, for I must talk to you."

Meanwhile Strathmore senior paced the floor of the office, and aloud he uttered his thoughts—"I never dream of the thing had gone so far. But I've started, and it is not in the nature of James Strathmore to deflect from his purpose. My persistence has made this business—Hal has all my characteristics in this line, but it is perverted."

Weeks had passed to months, and Nora was still at the office of her friend.

"Will you please go to the files of the year—and look up the adoption of a child by name of Lena Irving. It's a case in court, and they want the facts. Some property affair," said Mr. Greaves.

As she turned the leaves she paused—the color faded from her cheeks—quickly taking the pencil she copied something from the records and placed safely in her dress.

"That evening Hal could not understand what was the matter, she was silent. The result of which made him renew the matter with his father the next day."

"Hal, never mention that girl's name to me again. She has caused me enough worry. I do not want to hear her again spoken of."

A ring at the door of Nora's apartment, some days later, at first brought terror to her heart. It was Mr. James Strathmore.

"Needless to say, you are evidently surprised to see me here, but only be reasonable, and my business will soon be over. I know it is unusual for a man in my position to call on his late stenographer. Stories might be set afloat that might reflect on my untarnished reputation but I am willing to risk all to save my son from what I deem worthy folly."

Nora stood quietly before him. No change of color gave hint of what was rushing through her mind. Her hour of revenge had come. A fearful silence ensued. Stepping to her desk she drew forth a slip of paper and handed it to Strathmore. For a moment his eyes fell then looking at her with a cynical smile he said: "Well, what are you going to do about it now?"

"That is my secret. One thing I do know you shall never forget Kathleen Tenside on Hal. Nor shall your untarnished reputation go unscathed. I'm nothing—nobody, so beware."

"One thing further I want to know. Did you know who I was those years I was in your office? Swear! Swear!"

"I swear to you, I did not know. It was a thing of the past—a forgotten dream."

Clasping her hands against her breast she cried: "A thing of the past! A forgotten dream! I loath you, and could I do so, I would drain from my veins every drop of blood that speaks of you."

Strathmore stepped toward the entrance of the room, and as he touched the door to open it, he turned, with a sneering expression on his face. "One thing has been accomplished. You know now that you and Hal can never marry. You are brother and sister."

Silently as a snake he left the room, watching Nora closely as he went.

The following evening Hal spent with Nora, trying to draw her out of her strange reticence. At last he succeeded in getting the whole story, and the poor girl crumpled up like a wilted flower by his side.

"Surely there is a way out. There must be, Nora, I remember—but wait! I feel sure there is a way out."

Instead of going home, Hal walked rapidly to the great plant of Strathmore & son. He passed into his father's office, stooped down and passed his hands carefully over the desk, all the while, pressing here and there. Years before, he had been in the office and had seen his parent suddenly open a little hole and asking what it was, had been told it was a "fair" hole, that contained a great secret, which some day he might hear.

"Strange," said Hal, as he continued to pass his hands over the desk.

"Strange," said aloud. "In my dreams that panel seemed to move as by magic. I wonder if it was a real thing, or have I only dreamed it?"

Suddenly there was a click, and to his astonishment the opening was revealed. Inside was a document, dust covered. Evidently for years, perhaps since the day of his question, it had never been disturbed. Putting it in his pocket, he turned the key in the door and returned to his home, but not to sleep.

While Hal and Nora were deep in conversation the next day, events were developing in the office of Burdette, Burdette & Clarke.

"Good morning, Mr. Strathmore. More legal business? These are hard times for the employers."

"Oh, it's not that. I only wish it were." Then, explaining as rapidly as possible the state of affairs regarding the two concerned, Nora and Hal, and his own worries over it, he said: "You can readily see that legally, Hal cannot marry her. It's against all civil and moral law. It's stop it even at the marriage altar."

"Send the boy to me, Strathmore, and let's see if I can get him to see things in a right light."

"You will not tell him of the relationship yet?"

"Oh, no, no, leave that to me. I think I can handle the situation. Of course there will be no trouble with the girl. Women are too conscientious to risk such a marriage. Besides a fear of prison walls will no doubt fix it. By the way, did you say that she has a written copy of this declaration of her mother's, just before her death?"

"Yes, she has, confound it all! I never dreamed that could be unearthed. I am beginning to believe that there is a retribution, not in the hereafter, but in the now."

Not heeding his remarks, Burdette continued. "You say also that she has the note that you supported the mother for two years after her birth, in fact till she died when she, herself, was only two and a half years old?"

Strathmore nodded, while a really troubled look crossed his face.

"That's bad," said Burnette, "but we will see what can be done. The case is not hopeless." Then, as the door closed, "A device of a mess! Regular spiderweb, and the old chap inside. I fear, Al, well, the grist he put into the mill has been slow in grinding—but it's grinding."

Later in the day found Hal seated in the office of Mr. Burdette.

"Well, Hal, I wanted to see you to have a talk. Your father has been in here, and he has his heart very much set on your marrying Kathleen Tenside, thus uniting the two great industries. He's dead set against your little affair with Miss Towers, his late stenographer. He's been awfully decent to you, and I'd like to help right matters if I can. Besides, she is not just in your class."

"Oh, hang class! Look at this," and he handed Burdette a paper.

"I see, I see, but Hal, the purpose of this absolutely prohibits your marriage—the relationship. It's a serious matter to defy both the laws of God and man."

"Will you please glance over this," said Hal, handing him a document which he drew from his pocket.

"So this is the crux of the situation, said Burdette. May I ask where did you get it? Does your father know of you having it?"

"No, he doesn't," replied Hal, "Nor will, till I choose to tell."

The crux of the setting sun proclaimed the close of day as Mr. Strathmore touched the buzzer.

"Tell Hal I want to see him," he ordered.

"You saw Burdette?"

"Yes, father."

"I want to know what decision you have come to. Do you still intend to ruin your career by marrying Nora Towers?"

"Yes, I do."

"Then I must take steps to prevent it. You shall never marry her. Have you talked with Burdette?"

"Yes, I did."

"Well?"

"It makes no difference to me."

"You would marry her and bring disgrace on my fair name?"

"Father there is no disgrace save what you are responsible for."

"You would marry an illegitimate girl? My son never shall. I shall have his name erased from the firm tomorrow."

"This is not her fault, father if she is what you say."

"If this is all the gratitude I am to expect from you I must enlighten you further, Hal."

Turning to his desk, he passed the panel which opened at his slightest touch. A look of amazement overtook his face. Springing to his feet he faced Hal, only to see in his hands the document of which he was in search.

"Willful! I know you are, but I never dreamed I harbored a sneak."

Hal clenched his fist, his face flamed. Then, remembering, he slowly let his arm fall by his side, saying:

"Father, years ago you opened that secret drawer and put in it a folded paper. I was interested in seeing the panel slide. In answer to my childish question you said: 'There is a great secret in there that some day you may know.' It was you who put up the challenge in this game. I accepted it."

"All's fair in love or war. Are you satisfied with the results?"

"Hal! I demand that paper. It is not yours. You'll suffer for your arrogance."

Hal obeyed instantly, saying: "It is of no use now, as a secret. I have been duly copied and witnessed. I know, as you know, and so does Nora that I am your adopted son, the son of an old friend who was killed in a railway accident. More—Nora and I are to be married this evening in the cathedral. Will you come to the wedding? I suppose by rights I should ask the hand of your daughter first."

I thank you for my training and education, it means much to me. If I choose, I may take over the management of the Tenside interest the first of the month. What do you say?"

Strathmore, shaken as by some mighty force, sank into his chair, and with bowed head for a moment.

Then, with a supreme effort, faced Hal, put out his hand and grasped his son's closely in his own, saying: "Hal forgive me—and go—ask Nora if she ever can."

Railway News

Montreal.—The Canadian Pacific line announces several appointments to positions in the British Isles and Europe. Mr. W. H. Webb, destined for the post of passenger agent at Southampton, and Mr. A. R. Revell, slated for Antwerp, where he will be in charge of the passenger offices.

Sudbury.—Tuesday, August 8th, was the dawn of a new day in Northern Ontario railroading, when between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie and employees of the C. P. R. gathered in Sudbury and organized what was known as the Algoma District Employees' Association of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Every branch of the service, from general superintendent down, was represented. The object of the new association is to meet at regular intervals to discuss all subjects vital to the better serving of the public, and they hope of greater service to Canada, and naturally, the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Buff.—The American Bar Association, travelling east from its recent convention at San Francisco, spent two days in the Canadian Rockies. The party travelled in two special trains over the Canadian Pacific and Soo Line to Chicago, where it dissolved.

Several notable citizens of the United States were among the party, there being Vice-President Coolidge, his wife and two sons; John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, and John W. Whitman, former governor of New York State. The party expressed delight at the wonderful grandeur of Banff and Lake Louise, where two days were spent.

Montreal.—Despite warnings and the efforts of the railways to prevent them, accidents are occurring at railway crossings. The automobile drivers were a little more cautious they would save themselves.

"Oh, hang class! Look at this," and he handed Burdette a paper.

REMINISCENCE AND RECRIMINATION

Farming in the Prairie Provinces

For the last four or five years has been a very hard proposition To keep ourselves alive.

Time and again have we tried Though hindered by drought, hail, or frost,

Still we felt most optimistic Until the whole crop had been lost.

It's bad enough paying taxes, And a creditor here and there, But this damned old war tax business, Kinda gets you "Up in the air!"

This year's crop sure looks like a bumper, And we hope in the years to come, That the crops will be sold at a generous price.

To make up for the ones that were bum

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY

Little Eleanor, who was quite a "down mouse," went on a visit to her grand-mother. The country was a revelation to the child. Among other things that excited her wonder and interest was a lamb that came bleating at the door the evening of her arrival. "Oha aunt Sarah," she cried, running indoors, "there's a live sheep here that can talk as plain as any thing!" Do go out and hear it say "Ma!"

What is that of which the common sort is the best?—Sense.

Blind-Man's Buff

Even in this age of enlightenment some folks spend their money blindly. They buy with their eyes shut. They grope in the dark as truly as if their eyes were bandaged.

And altho' times a powerful light is being thrown on the very things they need and want.

Advertising is a beacon to guide you in buying. It shows you what to buy—where to buy—and when to buy. At the same time, it protects you against fraud and inferiority.

Merchants who advertise deliberately focus thousands of eyes upon their wares. Their value must be honest and their prices right, or they could not advertise successfully.

Don't play blind man's buff with the elusive dollar. Spend a few minutes each day running through the advertisements in this paper. Then buy the products that have proved up in the light of advertising.

HEAVY RAINS WILL NOT

HELP SHOOTING SEASON

It is much too early to make an estimate of prospects for the fall shooting this year for several reasons, and eager hunters who will launch

the marshes again on September 15th must wait a few weeks longer for authoritative information on this subject.

The dry seasons of the past have driven the duck further north to nest and feed; though this year, with the partial filling up of the sloughs, more female birds have stayed behind to nest.

"Wake up, my dear," said the Irish nurse; "it's time and more that you should be taking your sleeping draught."

One of the proposals

made by the loan companies for this

time extension is shown by the fact that Hon. J. A. Brownlee, attorney

general of Alberta; Hon. R. G. Reid,

minister of municipalities and his

deputy, J. L. Laue, were all present at the meeting and took part in the discussion.

When the young husband returned home from the office he found his wife in tears.

"Oh, John," she sobbed, "I had a lovely cake! I put it outside for the frothing to dry—and the dog ate it!"

"Well, don't cry about it sweetheart," replied her husband, patting her flushed cheek; "I know a man who will give you another dog!"

The male bird always leaves the

It is also too early to give an es-

PROGRESS TO

PROSPERITY

More real progress which will lead toward the ultimate prosperity of this district has been made this year than in any preceding one. Whilst we have been hearing on every hand "Money is tight... there has been a reformation in our spending habits that will in a small measure tend to bring a return of prosperity. Never a year has past when there has been such a small increase in the total individualities of the district nor has there been more conservative and scientific expenditures made, but on the other hand the amount of debt reduction has not been

as great as desired.

It has been said that the community has sunk into a state of "benum-bence" and that efforts have been continued for the purpose while not because a hope of final success was apparent, but because there was no escape. Such was the view of the pessimists. There are now many signs that the day of the pessimist is drawing to its close.

The return to prosperity will, however, be a long road. The optimist will by no means have it all his own way.

Even with the best of harvests this and the next two years, and with world conditions as they are, we may not expect high prices for our products; so granted the best of harvests this and the next two years we can only expect profits from the well managed farms that under present conditions profit may be made is testified by skillful observers and non-sponsoring farmers, who believe more in the policy "slow but sure" and pay as you go" rather than speed with excessive borrowing and often consequent disaster.

MAY EXTEND TIME

The eyes of the business community are now on the West. With every prospective bumper crop the possibility of a bumper crop has been a topic of discussion. Who has money to buy there, in one form or another have risen. A great deal depends on the prices ultimately realized. However, there is another aspect of the situation which has been engaging the attention of some shrewd investors. The combination of adverse circumstances of the past three years has left many farmers with heavy outstanding liabilities. Arrears of taxes and repayments on seed grain loans date back as far as 1920 in some cases. Added to this are overdue payments of interest and principal on mortgages, notes

given on the purchase of implements and other debts. It is evident that the present crop, even at good prices, will not be sufficient to meet all these claims.

At a conference of a number of directors of mortgage loan associations and the U. P. A. executive recently, the situation was discussed and a resolution was passed advocating that the extension of time on taxes and seed grain loans be left to the discretion of the municipalities to decide on the merits of individual cases.

The proposition was that the time of payment should be extended over a period of several years, but that the farmer should pay at least something every year.

If the taxes all fell due this year on many of the farmers, it would mean they would have recourse to the mortgage companies for help, and they in turn would have to foreclose to protect themselves. This is something the mortgage companies want to avoid.

They feel that it would do no one any good, and would only give the country a bad name.

One of the proposals

made by the loan companies for this

time extension is shown by the fact

that Hon. J. A. Brownlee, attorney

general of Alberta; Hon. R. G. Reid,

minister of municipalities and his

deputy, J. L. Laue, were all present

BULLETIN FROM PROVINCIAL GOVT.

Issued by Publicity Commissioner,
 Government Buildings, Edmonton
 Saturday, July 28, 1923.

Labor for Harvest Fields

It is estimated that between 10,000 and 12,000 men will be needed for the harvest fields in Alberta commencing about August 10 to 12. The labor department of the government, under Walter Smitten, commissioner of labor is now canvassing all possible sources of supply of such labor, is now canvassing all possible sources of supply of such labor. Harvest excursions will begin to arrive in Winnipeg on August 7, and others will reach there August 10, 16, 18, 21. Alberta will get a considerable number from these excursions, and it is estimated that 2,000 or 3,000 men can be secured from B. C. The labor department is making a special appeal to all employers in the province to release as many of their employees as possible for the harvest fields. Men will be needed from 10 onward, and employers who can release employees, and employees themselves, are asked to register with the nearest government employment bureau, which will see that the hands are placed. It is possible also that high school students will be asked to take a hand in the harvesting.

Fortune Wheels at Fairs Banned

Wheels of fortune and other gambling devices will be barred in future at Alberta fairs, according to an announcement from the attorney general's department. Notice to this effect is to be served upon the fair associations at the beginning of the year, in order that there will be plenty of warning for next year's exhibitions.

Tourist Traffic

Since the opening of the Banff-Windermere road linking up the grand circle tour through the Canadian and American Rockies, there have been 1089 cars over the road, according to a statement from Ottawa, of which nearly 500 were American cars. At the auto camp in Calgary 4600 tourists have been accommodated since July 1st.

British Forestry Delegates

A distinguished party of delegates to the British Empire Forestry Conference is expected to arrive in Wainwright.

ference being held in Ottawa, will visit the province during the latter part of August reaching Edmonton August 22. The chairman of the conference is Lord Lovat, and the party to visit Alberta includes men from all parts of the empire. The visitors will be met at Wainwright by Premier, Greenfield and Hon. George Hoadley.

Alberta Coal for Ontario

According to an arrangement made with the Canadian National Railway a shipment of 4,000 tons of Alberta coal, at a rate of $7 a ton will be made to Ontario in the next few weeks, for exhibition and experimental purposes. The shipments will be made from several mines in Alberta, under the authority of the Alberta Government. This arrangement is a result of the conference held some time ago between fuel board officials, Alberta Government officials, railway officials, and mine owners. Mr. Howard Stutchbury, trade commissioner of the province will have charge of the distribution of the coal in Ontario. The object is to demonstrate finally the feasibility of establishing Alberta coal as a suitable Ontario fuel.

New Irrigation Areas

According to a statement contained in the annual report of the reclamation service of the department of the interior at Ottawa, it is possible to irrigate nearly 400,000 acres more south and east of Lethbridge, at a cost of about $40 an acre. The development of this area, however depends on the development of a reservoir system on the Waterton, St. Mary's and Milk Rivers. For the development of the Lethbridge south-eastern project the cost of a reservoir system would be about $640 an acre.

Selling of Formaldehyde

While it is provided under federal law that formaldehyde must be sold in containers properly labelled as to strength it is stated that it is quite legal for farmers to bring their own containers when purchasing formaldehyde, provided the merchant sees that such containers are labelled similarly to the containers from which the formaldehyde is taken, before the purchase leaves the store. It is often convenient for farmers to purchase the material in large quantities. Merchants should keep a supply of labels on hand, in order that containers brought by farmers may be properly labelled.

CHOP VERSUS WHOLE GRAIN

FOR SWINE

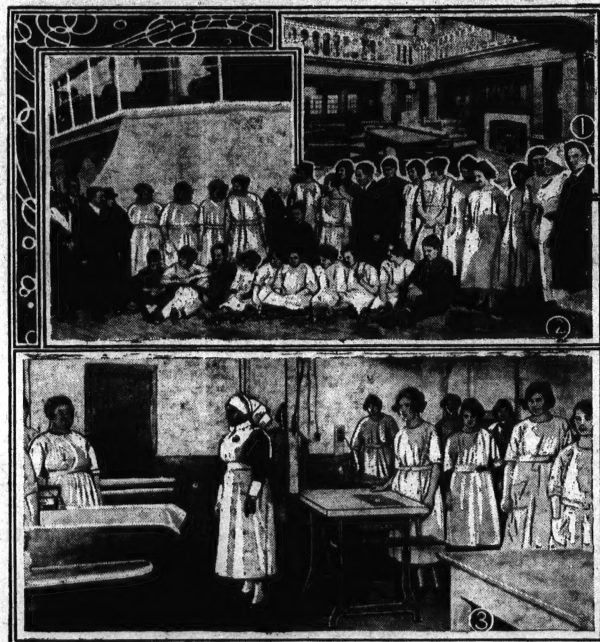

Twelve spring pigs averaging between 40 and 45 lbs. each divided into two lots of six each. One lot received dry whole grain, the other received an equal quantity by weight of the ground grain. At the commencement of the feeding period the grain mixture consisted of one part barley and three parts oats; later the proportion of barley was increased until near the end of the experiment the mixture consisted of half oats and half barley. A small quantity of oil cake meal was added to the ration of both lots near the end of the period. The following table gives some of the data obtained from this experiment:

	Whole Grain	Crushed Grain
Number of pigs in each lot	6	6
Final average weight	41.3 lbs.	43.3 lbs.
Final average weight	126 lbs.	146 lbs.
Average gain for each pig	84.8 lbs.	102.6 lbs.
Number of days in experiment	120 days	120 days
Total quantity of feed used	3371 lbs.	3333 lbs.
Pounds of feed required for 100 gain	662 lbs.	541 lbs.

Grinding the grain decreased the feed required for 100 lb. of gain by 121 lbs. or 18.3 per cent. The saving in cost of feed, valued at current prices prevailing during the time the experiment was being conducted, amounted to $1.38 per hundred weight of pork produced.

At the conclusion of this experiment the pigs which had been fed whole grain were fed chop well moistened with water. This resulted in rapid gains and would indicate that should a farmer not be in a position to feed crushed grain during the entire feeding period, he would be well repaid to secure crushed grain for finishing the pigs for market.

AN ELECTRIC LAUNDRY ABOARD SHIP

(1) A first-class smoking room on the "Empress of France"—(2) A group of the laundry staff of the

It has been said that the modern ocean liner is a floating hotel, and this is probably the best description that can be given. A modern hotel is a city in itself, and a modern ocean liner of the type of the Canadian Pacific "Empresses" is certainly no less. When a couple of thousand or so of passengers are cut off from land to spend a week or more on the ocean, they must have every convenience and comfort that land can provide. The ship must be self-sustaining in every particular. In this respect Canadian Pacific ships are as complete as modern inventions can make them, and whether their trips extend for one week, or six weeks as does the cruise of the Mediterranean which the "Empress of France" made this winter, or even for three months as in the case of the cruise around the world to be made by the "Empress of Australia" this year, nothing is lacking to ensure the complete happiness of all on board.

As an instance of the way in which modern liners are equipped, the newly installed laundry of the "Empress of France" is well worth comment. It cost $50,000 and its complete plant and large staff of workers make it probably the finest of its kind afloat. In addition to the large amount of work undertaken for passengers at shore points, it deals with 100,000 pieces of ship's linen per week. This new department is under the management of G. Dawe, junior, who controls a staff of six men and thirty women. Three washing machines form part of the equipment, and one of these, the largest ever fitted to a liner, is capable of dealing with 3,000 pieces of linen at a time, each piece being subjected to the entire washing process without removal. There is also a huge ironing machine which will iron and dry sheets at the rate of 400 per hour after they have been passed through a power wringer. This machine is operated by a team of nine girls. The higher class of laundry work is done by skilled ironers with press machines and electric irons, and there are elaborate electrical controls for starting, stopping and regulating the machines. In this case of the washing machines, electric motors are fitted to the top of them, and an electric timing device which regulates the revolving and reversing of the inside cylinders. The oil-burning "Empress of France" has a length of 571 feet, beam 72 feet, depth 42 feet, and gross tonnage of 18,481. The speed which made her such an asset to the navy during the war is still maintained, and Captain John Gillies, her commander, is the hero of many an exciting race to port. Once aboard the "Empress" one has nothing to do but enjoy life while awaiting the end of the journey which usually arrives all too soon. She is a beautifully appointed ship with seven first class public rooms, including a lounge, smoking room, card room, and library. Provision is made in the second-class quarters for three public rooms, and spacious deck space affords all passengers more than sufficient room for open air games and exercise. Her stowage accommodation is in many ways about equal to the cabin accommodation of Atlantic liners of a few years ago, and her first and second-class provisions are

Splendid Work Done By Neglected Children Dept

Last week we promised to give our readers an epitome of the work of the Department of Neglected Children (Alberta).

The machinery of the department is most simple. In cities a Childrens' Society is provided, whilst in smaller municipalities the work is done through inspectors and matrons appointed by the department.

The wards of the department are of two classes: first, the neglected and dependent; second, the delinquent. During the last year 483 dependent children have been cared for by being given shelter and the protecting care that will enable them to grow into good men and women. During the same period 448 delinquent boys and girls were tried by the Juvenile Court Commissioners. A total of 931 children cared for by the department during the past year. In addition to the cases referred to above a large number of cases have been settled out of court, this being done in every instance where satisfactory adjustment can be made without court proceedings.

These delinquent 430 boys and 23 girls, although they may have made serious mistakes, theft and damage to property being the most common offences, are not tried as criminals, nor in the same court room as older offenders. In the majority of cases first offenders are sent back to the parents after a friendly talk with both parents and children; or placed in charge of a good probation officer, whose duty it is to take special interest in the child. It has been found that in the majority of cases these methods have proved satisfactory and only when all other means have failed have these delinquents been confined to institutions.

Much of the success of the Department has been due to two simple but bedrock principles. Fundamental among these is the belief that when a boy or girl has become delinquent, it is not too late, if he or she be normal, to be redeemed to reputable manhood or womanhood. Environment counts. We know the discussions that there has been upon this question. The failure of parents or teacher to make a decent man or of promising youth has produced a race of skeptics concerning the power of environment. The belief that the original tendency of the twig will persist in spite of any bending pressure that may be brought to bear upon it. Experienced social reformers, upon the contrary, lay a great emphasis on influences surrounding the young life. They tell us that the boy needs a motherly lax because his father and mother did not have a spotless record, or because he himself has fallen into delinquency. A great humorist once declared, "If we all went far enough back we should find a Gallows Rampant on the family tree."

During the last few years, some 2,997 children, taken from all classes of homes, the progeny of every type of parents, have been placed out in foster homes, amid good surroundings. The experiment in every case, has not been a success, but the result in the great majority of instances leads to the conviction that environment is the determining factor. "He is not a bad boy," said the Matron of a Children's Shelter, "but he has never seen any good." It is doubtful if the true story of the average delinquent could be more truthfully expressed.

It has been said that every time a child stands in the Juvenile Court some adult should stand by his side or in his place. The department has spent a good deal of energy bringing to justice; parents, guardians, and other adults who in any way contribute to the neglect or delinquency of a child. It is not a common thing to see in our Juvenile Courts, men and women of mature age, charged with these offences. Sometimes severe penalties are imposed, the law providing for a fine of $100.00 or imprisonment up to a year. In many cases a severe reprimand or warning proves to be all that is necessary.

Of the 453 neglected children cared for during the past year, 230 were males and 223 were females. The great majority were under one year of age, whilst in each other year of age up to eighteen the average was 21. Of these children, 138 were left with their parents after the parents had been reprimanded; 21 were placed under the supervision of a probation officer; 50 were withdrawn or dismissed; 56 were sent to institutions and 246 were made wards of the department (of these 246, 73 were illegitimate).

In addition to all the figures above given a number of children are cared for by the city shelters at Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge under the provisions of section 5 of The Childrens Protection Act.

Our readers after reading over the report of our Conventional gathering at Halifax may possibly think it nothing but a good outing but we want to state frankly, that while we have accepted the hospitality so freely bestowed, and thoroughly enjoyed the many pleasures afforded us, the primary reason for the existence of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association is that we may raise the standard of the Weekly Newspapers throughout our great Dominion, by bringing together the editors from all parts in order that we may study the problems that confront us as a nation, and secure a better understanding in the business world.

To have made this possible we are deeply indebted to both the C. P. R. and the C. W. R. whose representatives in the persons of "The Two Howards" and their publicity agents Mr. J. Harry Smith of the C. P. R. were untiring in their efforts during the whole of our enjoyable outing.

For the benefit of any of our readers who may be interested in any of the places visited on the tour, we loaded ourselves with a whole mass of printed matter which is available at the office to anyone interested.

Conditions At Sydney Mines

Newspaper Man's Careful Observations of Particular Interest in View of the Strike There

In view of the labor situation in the Nova Scotia Steel and coal plants, he following from the Watford Advocate is of unusual interest. The Canadian Weekly Newspaper publishers recently paid a visit to Sydney. One of the party, Mr. W. C. Aylesworth, the clever young publisher of the Watford Advocate, has written the following extremely interesting accounts of these plants and the conditions of the workmen, which will give some idea of what these industrial concerns at Sydney have to contend with when their employees are under the mob leadership of such lawless and reckless demagogues as J. B. McLachlan, Secretary of The United Mine Workers of America, District 26.

Two weeks ago, says Mr. Aylesworth, the Weekly Press party spent two full days visiting the immense steel plant, the blast furnaces, the coke ovens, the steel rod, wire and nail plants with kindred industries at Sydney, and the coal mines, miners' homes and getting insight into the Eastern extremity of Canada. While we cannot come back to Old Ontario and wisely point our finger at the root of this trouble, we can form individual opinions from personal observations of things we were supposed not to see. In a nutshell, the strike centres around a difference between the Organized Labor Unions of the Steel and Mine Workers and the British Empire Steel Corporation. About the only principal "bone of contention" seems to be "shorter hours and higher pay," but digging deeper we find that sinister, red undercurrent of eruption against society that seems to be daily revealing itself in various parts of the country. The publishers of the newspapers talked with steel workers while passing through their section of the plants, questioned men in the blast furnaces, in the yards, in the coke ovens, in the coal collieries of New Glasgow, and even inspected miners' homes, and so the whole we found very little dissatisfaction. In fact, as one man put it, when a strike was called by the Union officials the majority of the men stayed at home because they were afraid to be found at work. Wages in all departments are as high as in any part of the country, ordinary laborers earning as high as $4.00 per day, with a rising scale up to expert mechanics at $12 and $14 per day, and the same may be said of the coal area. We found that wages were based accordingly and were indeed considerably higher than we have been led to believe back here in Ontario. We have all read gruesome reports in various papers depicting the terrible conditions under which the miners live; that they are a poor, ignorant lot; laboring under the conditions to which no other man would submit, living in hovels, with their families half-starved and naked.

Everything we had the privilege of seeing with our own eyes brands all these descriptions as "tommyrot." When we state that every publisher and his good wife walked through these various plants and down into the coal shafts at New Glasgow in their multi-colored holiday togs this dispels the fifth and dirt story. As for ignorance, most of the workers spoke French but readily changed to fluent English whenever questioned on any point. Although this strike cloud has been hovering for some time, and although there were at some time intense open looks of hostility between occasional workers and plant officials who guided us through, and although these men were aware that our party of over two hundred newspaper men and women were there as guests of this huge corporation, every one of them was ready to answer any question with a smile, and when you picture a bunch of green printers' devils from Ontario who had never seen soft coal before, nor 100-pound ste elrails ran out at the rate of 520 per hour, nor twin rivers of steel and iron flowing out of the huge blast furnaces, nor huge steel rods drawn down to the size of wire that boys and girls twist up into all sorts of kitchen utensils, nor seen 7 and a half tons of coal converted into coke in 7 minutes, nor seen those ingenious little machines rattling out various sized nails at a terrific rate, you can well imagine all the foolish questions we all fired at them, and when we come back home again and think of the innumerable times that each and every one of us displayed our absolute ignorance, no wonder they smiled. But they no doubt realized, as did their employers, that with the coming of this representative gathering of the press from every Province and County of the whole Dominion, there was an unexcelled opportunity for each of them to give us all the information we desired and could carry away, and when a few of us were bold enough to suggest to our driver that we would actually like to inspect the interior of some of these so-called poor down-miners' homes, he was perfectly willing to see what the good miners' home life thought of it. After explaining our desire and purpose, and waving aside our embarrassment and apologies, we entered and she conducted us through the entire house. Whatever the good miner thought when she informed him of our intrusion, we cannot say, as we were away down on the beautiful Bras d'Or Lakes by that time. Without being too intimate in our description of this good lady's home, we can truthfully say our local furniture dealers would revel in the joy of equipping every home in this country with similar furnishings. There were excellent rugs on the floors, both a player-piano and a victrola in the living room, an abundance of first class furniture throughout every room in the house, and on the whole, looked like one of those happy, contented homes that every young couple craves. The majority of the homes are rented from the Company and the highest rent is $8 per month, which also includes water rates. They are equipped with electric lights, running water, many more bathrooms than we can boast, and joy! O joy, they buy coke all the year round from the Company for $2.25 per ton! Can you wonder that some of them are still dissatisfied?

SUCCESS

Climbing, climbing, climbing. Up like hard ladder I go. The process is very painful. Not rapid, but certainly slow. No one to cheer, or praise me. As I wind my lonely way— No one to share my burden— The mob below must stay.

The pitfalls of fate are many. Quite off, when hearing the top. The sun gives way without warning. So down I go for a flop.

What matters a minor mishap? I rise with a cheerful smile. To climb, upward, onward forever. And whistle merrily the while.

Canada Faces the Future With Confidence

CANADIANS have always been noted for courage, optimism and faith in their country.

Canada was not built up by pessimists, nor will Canada continue to develop if her people allow themselves to become croakers and grouches. Canada is fundamentally an agricultural country. We have a soil and climate which can grow the world's finest agricultural products.

Canadian farmers who have earned the capital invested in their farms out of profits in farming are numbered in thousands. These successful farmers have paid off their mortgages, stocked their barns and stables, bought their machinery, made a good living and brought up their families. It meant hard work, but today they are independent.

Money in Mixed Farming
In recent years, at different points on the prairies, and on to steers have brought from 70c to $1.07 as against the Fort William price of 42c per bushel, while barley used for the same purpose has brought as high as 92c as against the Fort William price of 57c per bushel. Farmers marketing their coarse grains in this way lower marketing cost, have a sure market and make money on their grain, while at the same time they market their roughage, otherwise often wasted. The cattle embargo is now off. Steers are worth more money and certain to make good money for the Canadian farmer from now on.

Money in Pigs

The Dominion Experimental Farms have proved by actual test that there is a profit in feeding pigs. Last year at the Central Farm, Ottawa, after paying for feed, labor, interest and depreciation, the net profit per pig was still $4.63.

Profits from Sheep

As money-makers, sheep are hard to beat. In every Province from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia are found many flocks returning generous profits to their owners.

Poultry Pays

Poultry makes money for those who adopt modern methods, whether East or West. Little Prince Edward Island markets co-operatively in carlots, shipping annually upwards of one million dozen eggs. The British Columbia Co-operative Poultry Men's Exchange markets in the same way, thus saving ruinous glut in the market.

There is a market for good Canadian horses, whether light or draught.

Grow Seed

Canada's Northern grown seed possesses extra vitality. There is a large market for it to the south. Canada exports seed potatoes, but imports other seeds. She has the opportunity to grow seeds for herself and for export.

The Future

Ten years from now the pessimists of today will have been forgotten. Britain has removed the embargo against our cattle. She wants our beef and mutton, our cheese, butter, eggs and apples, our wheat and flour. As the population of the United States increases, she will compete less and less against us on the British market. Eventually, she will herself be an importer of many of our food stuffs besides wheat from this country.

Canada has the men, the climate, the land, the stock and the potential markets necessary for agricultural success. Let us farm with all the industry and science we can muster. Let's go to work and pay our debts. Canada is moving forward with confidence in its future. Let us keep going ahead.

SIXTH SEMI-MONTHLY PROV. CROP REPORT

Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. Saturday, July 28, 1923.

Alberta crops are progressing satisfactorily towards the harvesting stage. Although the precipitation has diminished in most districts during the past fortnight, there is sufficient moisture in the soil to carry the grain to maturity in practically all sections of the province.

Practically all wheat is now headed out, and is filling rapidly and well. The stand of this grain in most districts is very heavy and is from four to five feet and even more in height. Oats and barley are heading out and putting in a good yield.

Haying is in progress over the province, and the yield of native grasses is very heavy, although the timothy crop will be light. The first cutting of alfalfa has yielded well and the second growth is showing a good stand.

Harvesting of wheat will commence in a few districts in the province as early as August 10, but will not be general until between the 15th and 20th. The weather generally speaking has been very warm, with a few showers. In one or two districts in the south-eastern part of the province, the hot weather has produced slight drought conditions, but the grain has not suffered to any appreciable extent. Grasshoppers are still causing some trouble in a few districts in the south, and there have been one or two serious flights. Little damage, however, is reported as yet.

Since last report damage from hail has been serious in some districts in a limited area, where the extent of damage has ranged from 25 to 27 per cent. A large number of claims have been received at the office of the municipal hail board, but the majority of these are for comparatively small amounts. The percentage of loss from this cause in the province as a whole will not be great.

Farmers are reminded that it may not be possible to secure men on the exact date they are needed, and are asked where possible to take men on a day or two previous to commencement of harvest, in order that they may be taken care of.
